

True Happiness Really Does Exist

Are you completely happy? Is your marriage what you've always wanted it to be? Are your children getting the best of you and your time? Do you work in a place that's fulfilling? Are there days when you wonder if you're doing what you were created to do? Do you sometimes feel half full or half empty? Do you sometimes sit for moments and wonder, what's next? Do you hesitate to answer your cell phone because you feel that it might be someone who needs your help? Are you reluctant to go to the mailbox these days because you know that all you're going to get is junk mail or bills? Do you worry at times whether or not you've made any progress in life that's worth talking about?

Are you pleased with how you look? Are you pleased with the friends that your children have chosen? Do you think of others more highly than of yourself? Do you find yourself doing the same things daily but never truly being fulfilled? Do you listen to songs that sometimes remind you of the good old days? Do you sit and wonder how your loved ones are doing who have passed away? Do you wonder if you are truly ever going to see them again? Do you wish that you were more important to those who walk by you daily but don't think to speak because you're not in management, or you're not knockout gorgeous or handsome enough?

Do you look in the mirror and ask yourself why should I keep going; life just isn't fair? Do you wish that you could have those long phone conversations with your parents or grandparents, only to find out that they're no longer in their right mind? Do you find yourself being reserved when you hear the children say, "mom or dad, the phone is for you, its grandma or grandpa?" Are you one of those people who have lots of money but can't seem to find that balance between love and money? Which is most important? How often do you spend quality time with other family members such as aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews?

Is everyone so annoyed with one another that they can no longer stand to be around each other? How many good friends do you have that you can say with certainty that you trust? What would you do if you were to lose every important possession that you worked so hard to attain? How would you feel if your children had to go to school without the necessary books needed to learn, but were forced to share? How would you feel if you had to live in a place that didn't recognize you as a human? Why is it all about republican or democrat? Why is it about the white race or the black race, and not the human race? Why?

Until man decides to fully accept Jesus Christ as their personal Lord and Savior, along with making an investment to study God's Word (for themselves), pray daily, and fellowship with others, will they ever find true happiness and their purpose, or lot, in life. God has called each of us to live our life glorifying Him and not ourselves. We are called to lift up the name of Jesus. God has given everyone a gift or multiple gifts. And the gifts that God has bestowed upon us are to be shared and not stored up in a closet.

If you are seeking complete happiness and you have never fully surrendered your entire life to Christ, do not hesitate. Allow God to come into your heart to help you discover your true purpose. "I was once a sinner. But now, I am a true and sincere believer and follower of Christ." I have learned that nothing in the world can ever measure up to what God has promised in the B-I-B-L-E. If you haven't picked it up in a while and read it, you might want make it a huge part of your daily meal. "I guarantee you that it will be the right investment with the biggest return in your life." Accept Jesus today and receive the fruit of the spirit that will impact your personal life forever. Galatians 5:22

One nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Deon Hunter